(I) Summary

SIPC Background

ITPO Shanghai (“SIPC”) was found in September 2001 based on an agreement between UNIDO, Shanghai Municipal Government and PRC. In April 2011, the agreement was renewed for another three years, as the third phase of cooperation.

The main objective of the project is to promote the inflow of foreign capital to Shanghai as well as the outflow of Chinese investments to other developing countries and countries with economics in transitions.

Working Summary in 2013

SIPC has been working closely with UNIDO global networks, Shanghai Municipality Government and Shanghai Foreign Investment Development Board (“InvestSH”), and established an extensive working network to promote investment and technology transfer between Yangtze River Delta in China and developing countries.

SIPC aimed to enhance local brand visibility; investment & technology project promotion and strengthen capacity of IPAs and Chinese enterprises, especially through the UNIDO global networks and local resources.

Following is the outcome in 2013:

- I Number of the outward investment projects concluded: 14
- I Total contractual amount of outward investment promoted by the Office: USD238.6million
- I Number of presentations/speeches on investment/technology transfer by the Office staff: 37
- I Number of meeting with investment promotion delegations from other countries: 159
- I Number of advising/consulting services (problem solving), to the potential companies/organizations that requested for assistance: 124
- I Number of investment promotion activities to be organized: 11
- I Number of the investment projects for outward under negotiation: 15

(II) Working Strategy

The goals and objectives of SIPC are in line with the donor and counterpart in accordance with UNIDO priorities.

In 2013, priority attention was paid by SIPC to Africa, Latin America, South East Asia and EU countries to promote outward investment and technology transfer from China. From the figures for Shanghai Municipality's outward investment statistics in 2013, it can be reflected that, the contractual amount of concluded overseas investment projects has been increased around 32.75%, and more than 75% flowed to Asia regions, including Hong Kong SAR.

Technology transfer among developing countries and countries in economy transition is another working focus. In May 2013, the 1st China (Shanghai) International Technology Fair ("CSITF") was jointly hosted by the China Ministry of Commerce, Ministry of Science and Technology, State Intellectual Property Office and Shanghai Municipality. With the full support from UNIDO Headquarters, regional office in China and ITPO networks, UNIDO was one of the earliest participated UN agencies to the 1st CSITF, as the international organization supporter.

Being part of UNIDO investment and technology promotion network, cooperation with UNIDO HQs, other ITPO field offices and other international organizations distinguished us from other local Investment Promotion Agency ("IPA"s). SIPC recorded more than 10 cooperation activities with UNIDO HQs or other field offices within ITPO network, which is related to facilitation on UNIDO HQ missions, Shanghai Municipality delegation to UNIDO, participation & organization in global forums and joint promotion of investment projects. Through building up a closer relation with the global family, Chinese enterprises can be more accessible to the resources and project information.

(III) Investment Promotion Program

SIPC developed a working plan and strategy to implement more effective outward investment and technology transfer promotion.

In 2013, SIPC engaged in a vast array of information dissemination, matchmaking and follow-up consultancy assistance to private sector entrepreneurs. Intense cooperation and networking of SIPC with Shanghai Municipality Commission of Commerce (SCOFCOM), InvestSH and local IPAs has been conducted, which achieved satisfactory results.

SIPC performed various activities such as country presentation seminars, professional service workshop, roundtable meeting, newsletters and mission visits with global ITPO's and IPA's network.

Investment Promotion

- ž 49 weekly investment and technology promotion newsletters of UNIDO SIPC in Chinese have been circulated in 2013 to the stakeholders including Shanghai Municipal Government, InvestSH and private companies, with the features of international investment environment news, special coverage, project information and investment data analysis, which were welcomed by the government and private companies for policy and decision making.

z̄ SIPC was distinguished itself as an important agency in Shanghai's international cooperation and was expected to represent both UNIDO and Shanghai with the arm of InvestSH in Yangtze River Delta Region. SIPC is now playing an increasing role in jointly implementing cross-regional economy cooperation initiative with other key stakeholder countries and international organization. To highlight that, SIPC jointly organized Global CEO Forum in Shanghai in Nov 2013 with China International Centre for Economic and Technical Exchanges (CICETE) and UNIDO Representative Office in China.

- ž In 2013, altogether 3 missions from HQs or UNIDO representatives were supported by SIPC staff, which included UNIDO delegation visit to Shanghai during 1st CSITF, led by Ms. Sui Hui, Principal Advisor to the Director General and UNIDO project team of 5MW rice husk power plant visit to China. SIPC's support consisted of organizing workshop of UNIDO Green Industry Platform, making arrangements for meetings with relevant partners, briefing UNIDO visitors, making or assisting in logistical arrangements, etc. In Nov 2013, Bahraini – Chinese Entrepreneurs Investment Forum was organized in cooperation with the Shanghai Chamber of Commerce and ITPO Bahrain. The forum resulted in arranging 50 bilateral meetings and the signing of 19 letters of intent with an estimated investment value of 32 million USD in a number of sectors including petrochemicals, ICT, green industry, recycling, garments & textiles, building material and agriculture.

- ž SIPC promoted UNIDO brand in Yangtze River Delta regions by actively participating investment promotion events like investment seminars, exhibitions, and conferences as UNIDO field office. In 2013, SIPC participated in 129 investment promotion activities/forums and held 148 meetings/discussions with IPAs like government agencies, foreign Consulate Generals and chambers in Shanghai.

- ž 124 project consultations to potential foreign and domestic investors have been conducted to provide suggestions on the project feasibility, market analysis, certificate application policy clarifications. 11 delegations from abroad have been received by SIPC to increase visitors' awareness of Shanghai investment climate, strategy and policies.

(IV) Technology Promotion Program

2013 Shanghai (China) International Technology Fair

The 1st CSITF was a state-level grand event jointly hosted by the China Ministry of Commerce, Ministry of Science and Technology, State Intellectual Property Office and Shanghai Municipality, which was held from 8-11 May in Shanghai, China. With the full support from UNIDO Headquarters, regional office in China and ITPO networks, UNIDO was one of the earliest participated UN agencies to the 1st CSITF, as the international organization supporter.

The UNIDO Day was held on 9 May 2013, including the major thematic forums of “Technology—The Key to Sustainable Industrial Development” in the morning session, “the 8th South-South Trade Summit-GATE Convention 2013” in the afternoon and UNIDO booth at Shanghai Mart.

ITPO Shanghai organized UNIDO Booth of 36 square meters at 4th floor of Shanghai Mart to exhibit and demonstrate modes of technology transfer as well as selected technologies with particular attention given to ITPOs, UNIDO Centre for South-South Industrial Cooperation (UCSSIC) and UNIDO ICAMT. During the CSITF sessions, the booth received hundreds of visits from companies, institutions and Chinese provincial and municipal government agencies. The public awareness of UNIDO brand, ITPO network and roles in technology transfer has been increased through the exhibition.

(V) Capacity Building

Since the beginning of Phase III, SIPC has carried out a series of investment and technology transfer programme to SIPC, IPAs staff and Chinese companies to enhance staff capabilities, institutional capacity of IPAs, private sector companies and government officials in developing countries.

SIPC played an important role as the connection between Chinese business communities and UNIDO investment and technology resources from UNIDO global ITPO networks, tools and programmes.

Through attending ITPO head meetings and visiting ITPO offices, SIPC staffs have exchanges of experience among ITPOs on best practices for technology promotion and transfer of technology. SIPC continued to send SIPC staff to UNIDO HQ to attend COMFAR III financial analysis software training in HQ to enhance staff professional capability in May and Sep 2013.

In addition, SIPC has also been working with SCOFCOM, InvestSH and professional institutions to organize 37 trainings for practical capacity building on investment promotion policies and regulations for foreign IPAs and Consulate Generals in Shanghai.
