Agenda

Introducing ePerformance

Learnings from the Spring 2000 Round

The challenge ahead

Many Questions... Few Answers...

- ④ What metrics should I use to gauge my company's performance?
- ④ How much do I need to invest over the next 6 months to double my visitor base?
- ④ What are realistic targets for my online business?
- ④ How can I demonstrate to my investors that my business is "on track"?
- ④ Am I developing my business at rates that allow me to maintain leadership?
- ④ How can I cut through the information clutter and get reliable performance metrics?

ePerformance Value Proposition

④ Establish the industry standard to measure performance

④ Provide tools and advice to identify and address performance gaps

④ Facilitate sharing of learnings and best practices

Key Findings

Latin American Internet market is nascent and yet has to transform the economic landscape of the region

- ④ Incumbents maintain unusual dominant position in the region, with strong performance metrics. However they have limited their focus on replicating foreign successful models
- ④ Overall the performance of Latin American companies is significantly behind that of other regions due to intrinsic limitations of the marketplace and the current stage of ecommerce development

Within Transaction Aggregators Companies are L lagging Behind in all Three Dimensions

Attraction	Conversion	Retention
Higher visitor acquisition costs due to poorer marketing tactics	Lower customer conversion rates due to lower level of customer confidence with online services	Lower repeat customer conversion rates due to the lack of eCRM

While attraction and conversion metrics are clearly influenced by the early stage of development of the market, low retention scores indicate players' inability to develop and implement differentiated customer value propositions

Content Aggregators Key Indicators

Source : ePerformance Database 4th Quarter of 99 monthly averages; client interviews 23

Within Content Aggregators, Companies are Scoring High in Attraction and Conversion

Attraction and Conversion

Higher visitor time on site and repeat visitor conversion rates due to traffic concentration on few sites

Retention

Lower repeat customer conversion rates due to the lack of eCRM

In attraction and conversion leading players benefit from lower competition, but are still struggling to capture valuable personal information from users

A Winning Formula – Rigorous Innovation

Clarity of objectives, principles and practices

Controlled extension

Disciplined marketing investment

Maximization of technology platform potential

Comprehensive use of customer data

The challenge ahead

The Challenge Ahead

- ④ How can Latin American players achieve levels of minimum efficient scale as they face structural market limitations? (e.g., lower education levels, purchasing power, internet penetration)
- ④ How can Latin American players evolve from the imitation of existing models into new innovative solutions that adapt to region needs and change its competitive landscape?
- ④ What actions should be taken to improve ebusinesses execution capabilities and overcome external infrastructure limitations in order to become a mainstream commerce option?
